Current Comment

By R. H. K.

The opinions (if any) expressed herein, are not necessarily those of The Campbell Press.

The time has come—nay, it has been here for some time—when every citizen of Santa Clara county should get up on his hind legs and start howling for an absolute enforcement of the dog quarantine measure passed by the board of supervisors at the beginning of the current rabies epidemic.

Far from viewing with alarm the hideous potentialities of the rabid dog, the average citizen adopts an attitude of extreme indifference. The rabies situation in this county, already appalling, grows more acute with every day the quarantine ordinance is so universally flouted. Dog owners throughout the county allow their animals to run at large, seldom knowing where they are, and never aware of the presenec of rabies until the creature bites a human. The ensuing pathological examination then reveals the presence of rabies, and the dog owner feels quite badly, perhaps; but in the meantime, who knows how many other dogs in the community have been infected from the same source?

I would like to be able to say that Campbell differs from other towns in the county, and that people hereabouts are very particular about the enforecment of-the quarantine. Such an assertion, however, would be so far from the truth as to constitute a downright lie—and who am I to lie about so unfortunate a situation? It might cause local people to swell with civic pride, but it would do nothing to halt the steady advance of rabies. In other words, then, Campbell is simply overrun with stray dogs that have absolutely no business out of confinement.

Early in the epidemic the seriousness of the situation was brought home to me when my own dog nipped a youngster. A representative of the county health department asked me to keep the dog under observation, told me what to watch for. Well, I went him one better, and, at some trouble and expense, built a runway and kennel. The rabies situation, as far as my dog is concerned, is well under control—and that is a condition both myself and the paper for which I scribble would like to see throughout the county, starting right here in Campbell.

In order to accomplish this to be sought after condition it is necessary to tie up or pen every single dog in town. If you own a dog, pen it up until rabies is no longer a source of danger to everybody—particularly small children—in the county. If you see loose dogs about, call the county health department, and demand that some one be sent out to remove them. If you know a rabid dog when you see one, dispose of it immediately, if you can—and talk about it afterwards. It is up to the county health department to enforce the dog quarantine. It is up to us—all of us—to bring enough pressure to bear on that department to see that the ordinance is really observed.

Some of you may regard the foregoing remarks rather lightly, but let me assure you that they are written in all seriousness, and with the hope that they will mean the start of a real county-wide cleanup. I have talked to both Dr. Frank R. Anderson and Dr. Walter I. Merrill about the rabies situation in this county. Both of these men were very positive in their opinion that only through strict enforcement of the dog quarantine will rabies be cleaned up in the county. And both put it squarely up to the health department. We can help the department immeasureably by penning our own dogs, and by advising the poundmen of the presence of stray dogs in the neighborhood. So let's have at it—and everybody, START WITH YOUR OWN DOG!

S. J. Concert Series to Open November 5th

The third annual San Jose concert series will open in the civic auditorium, San Jose on Saturday evening, November 5, under the Denny-Watrous management.

Four world famous attractions will be featured on the series, for which season tickets at considerable saving over the single seat price are now selling in the box office at the auditorium. A special low rate is offered all students, who must bring their student body cards to the box office to secure it.

The Ballet Caravan is the opening event on November 5. This great American Ballet, composed of twenty young American dancers, the equal of any European dancers, comes to the Pacific coast for the first time this season, and will be one of the great dance sensations of the fall season. Offering such spectatcular ballets of the American scene as "Filling Station," "Yankee Clipper," "Billy the Kid," as well as the classic, traditional ballet, the Ballet Caravan has a unique place in the dance world.

Jascha Heifetz, considered by many as the greatest of all violinists, will play on January 16, the second attraction of the series. Then comes the negro contralto, Marian Anderson, of whom Toscanini wrote, "A voice like yours is heard only once in a hundred years," and of whom critics have written in superlatives since her first tour. Last year every Marian Anderson concert all the way across the continent was completely sold out, and this year, from all appearances, will be the some. The San Jose management already reports a heavy sale for the February concert of the great singer.

The famous French Trio, the Pasquier Brothers, will close the series on March 9. This combination of violin, viola and cello has held its audiences spellbound in England and throughout Europe, and has an equally devoted following in America.

Marjorie Prout Becomes Bride of Henry Holtz

At a pretty ceremony performed at 4 o'clock, Sept. 30, by the Rev. D. S. Stump of Los Gatos, in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Dudley Davis, Miss Marjorie Prout became the bride of Henry Holtz.

Before the exchange of vows Mrs. Wayne Murphy of San Jose sang "Because," with Miss Olga Brydon playing the accompaniment.

The bride was very attractive in a gown of white satin and finger tip veil and carried a mixed bouquet. She was given away by her father, J. H. Prout.

Mrs. Anna De Selle, sister of the bride, gowned in blue moire and carrying pink roses, was her attendant.

Glenn Holtz was the groomsman and Doris Jean Smith and Florence Everett assisted in serving the light refreshments.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Prout of Campbell and has spent her girlhood here and attended the local schools. She has been employed in the Campbell telephone exchange and will continue there for the present.

Mr. Holtz is connected with the Food Machinery company in San Jose. The young people will occupy the A. A. Purmort house on West Campbell avenue.

WM. NOETHIGS PROUD PARENTS

Mr. and Mrs. William J. Noethig are being congratulated on the birth of a daughter, Beatrice Edith, at the San Jose hospital, October 4.

The Noethigs, now listed as residents of Los Gatos, have been connected with Campbell community, where "Billy" attended schools, and is an officer of Charity Lodge, F. & A. M. His father, William F., has been a rancher on Payne avenue for many years.

FOLLOWER OF LEIF

S. N. Hedegard, committeeman for the Scandinavian societies' October 14 celebration of Leif Erickson day, exhibits one of the painting of Leif Erickson's ship to be awarded winning students in a county-wide contest as a feature of the event.

Mrs. Rose Hanger Hostess to Pundita Circle Wednesday

An interesting meeting of Pundita Circle was held yesterday at the home of the president, Mrs. Rose E. Hanger .

Mrs. Laura S. Allen and Mrs. Florence M. La Montagne presented the program on the topic "Moving Pictures." Mrs. Allen read a humorous sketch by Bruno Lessing on "Hollywood" and also a short biography and description of the work of Walt Disney.

The establishment of Boy Town and its history, and a review of the picture by the same name were the subjects chosen by Mrs. La Montagne.

The business session, presided over by the president had some items of unusual interest. A letter from Mrs. Peck, congratulating the club on full payment of the foundation fund was read, with the announcement that the club was entitled to elect four members for the roll of honor. Those so honored were Mrs. M. E. Mumma, Mrs. W. H. Stray, Mrs. J. J. Pardee and Mrs. Etta C. Alison.

Mrs. Alison, who was a guest of the day was also elected to associate membership.

Mrs. Emery Cleaves, who is visiting her parents, Mr. and Mrs. George W. Page was another welcome guest.

Mrs. L. J. Carboni reported the meeting of the garden section at her home on Oct. 5, and Mrs. D. H. Cramer the first county federation meeting held in Gilroy.

Autumn flowers decorated the rooms and autumn colors were featured in the dainty refreshments.

On October 26 the home of Mrs. A. M. Standish on Virginia avenue will be the meeting place.

Scandinavians To Observe Lief Erickson Day

Scandinavian societies of San Jose and vicinity are celebrating Leif Erickson day tomorrow, Oct. 14. Local celebration was postponed from Oct. 9, the day proclaimed throughout the state, because of conflicting dates for the San Jose civic auditorium.

The evening program will begin at 8 p. m. The Roosevelt school band of 150 pieces, 40 Scandinavian singers and a male chorus will provide the music, and the importance of Leif Erickson and early Scandinavian explorers will be discussed by the speaker. The program will be followed by a dance.

Van Dyke to be On Air Future Farmers' Day

By Don Martin

Principal Willard Van Dyke of Campbell Union High school will speak on a coast to coast hook-up of the National Broadcasting company Tuesday. His talk, "The Value of the Future Farmer Movement to the Nation," will be given in connection with National Future Farmers of America day program.

Time and station of the broadcast have not been announced.

"CRANKS" IN CAMPBELL TO BE ELIMINATED

We have our electric signs, we have our sanitary district, we have all of our streets paved, and now it looks like we might be further modernized by the installation of an entirely new telephone system. At least that was the assurance given yesterday to a number of the business men by representatives of the Pacific Telephone and Telegraph company. Complete details have not as yet been worked out but the present plan is to install what is known as the dial system of making calls, thus doing away entirely with the necessity of "turning the crank" every time a call is made.

Campbell is one of the very few communities where this antiquated system is still in vogue and it is the earnest hope of everyone with whom the matter has been discussed that the company will at once proceed with whatever plans may be necessary to affect the change.

High School To Hold Open House Oct. 19

At 8 o'clock Wednesday evening, October 19, the new high schol will open its doors to the community and friends, with open house sponsored by the local high school P. T. A. Personally conducted tours of the various buildings will be a feature of the evening. Everyone is cordially invited to attend.

Mrs. M. H. Farnham, P. T. A. membership chairman, wishes to announce that the annual membership drive will officially open at the same time, and she and members of her committee will be prepared to accept enrollments for the current year. With a pre-drive membership of 32 for a start, it is believed that a mark well over a hundred will be reached during the evening. If you are interested in Campbell Union High school and high school pupils, come prepared to join the P. T. A.

Local Gridders Hope to Upset Fremont High

By Don Martin

Valley league fans can expect Campbell high to upset Fremont when the gridders battle it out on the Fremont turf Friday afternoon if Coach Steve Casaleggio's shift in first string positions clicks like it has in practice.

Profiting from the experience of his game against Los Gatos last week in which Campbell was defeated 20-0 chiefly because of lack of backfield power, Casaleggio has moved all-valley end Bert Robinson to the fullback spot. Here Robinson, who kicks, passes, and has plenty of speed and drive for line plunges, will be a triple threat to the Fremont eleven. Johnson, a transfer student from Bakersfield, and Packer, husky sophomore, will alternate at right end. Campbell also has a couple of fast and aggressive halfs, Azevedo and Goldstone, to strengthen the backfield.

Despite the fact that three first string men, Boos, center; Klichan, guard; and Liberhardt, quarterback; will not see any action because of injuries, the new line-up is expected to be a winning combination.

Fremont eked out a 7-6 victory over Gilroy last week and hope to continue their winning streak by curbing Campbell's league title ambitions.

GRAMMAR P.T.A. GET YEAR BOOKS AT FIRST MEETING

The Campbell Union Grammar School P. T. A. held the first meeting of the fall term Tuesday, Oct. 4 at the school with the president Mrs. A. W. Wellington, presiding.

Mrs. J. O. Leverton presented the year books and reports were given by the standing committees.

Mrs. A. W. Wellington gave a very interesting report on the state convention held in San Francisco recently.

The principal of the school Ira R. Abbott gave a very interesting and instructive talk on what the P. T. A. means to the school.

Mrs. Anthony Jurras, the membership chairman reported the membership campaign has started and will continue for a month. All interested are urged to join. Help Safeguard childhood—join P.-T. A.

At the close of the meeting delicious refreshments were served by the executive board and the principal Ira Abbott introduced members of the faculty and each teacher was presented with a corsage.

Chest Campaign Well Underway; Success Is Seen

The Community Chest campaign is well under way with first returns of $282.00 already in.

Last Thursday evening, after our publication, the officers of the community council met with campaign manager Ira Grim and arranged solicitors to be asked to canvass the various institutions and districts included in the chest territory.

Grim reports a most heartening cooperation on the part of those asked to help put over this very essential part of community welfare.

Many who do not otherwise feel the need of helping maintain some of the groups sharing in the chest are among the most eager patrons of the library and should be willing to do their part toward keeping it functioning.

No one should feel that his gift is too small. Many dimes and quarters add materially to the sum of other dollars.

These people who give so freely of their time and efforts in addition to their monetary contributions should at least be accorded a gracious reception. No penny of your donation goesto any solicitor or officer.

For the residential sections in and around town the following were asked to help.

Mrs. C. F. Smith, Mrs. M. F. Hughes, Charles Jones, Mrs. F. L. Howes, members of the Country Women's club; Mrs. Ray Mathis, Mrs. C. E. Williams, H. M. Shadle, Harry Evans, W. R. Coupland, the Rev. Edwin Bowling, Mrs. J. H. Bachman, the Rev. J. H. Bennett, Mrs. P. B. Payne and Mrs. John Morley.

Others and the territories they were offered, follow:

Willard Van Dyke, Campbell Union High school; Ira Abbott, Campbell Union Grammar school; Charles F Smith, Drew Canning company; Axel Granstrom, Winchester Dried Fruit company; Paul Wray, Campbell Cooperative Dryer and California Fruit and Apricot association, plant one.

Dan Clark, Campbell business district; Dr. W. I. Merrill, county hospital; Campbell grammar school P. T. A., Hamilton school district; Cambrian Home and School club, Cambrian school district; Campbell Women's Service club, San Tomas district; Ed Weisendanger, Moreland district, and Campbell high school P. T. A., Meridian district.

A. W. Price Succumbs to Heart Attack

A. W. Price, 84, died suddenly Monday, of a heart attack at his ranch home on Hillsdale avenue. Widelyknown through his employment for 53 years in the Farmers' Union, he was a brother of the late E. I. Price, resident of Dry Creek road.

"CLUB TRADITIONS" TOPIC FOR MEET, COUNTRY WOMEN

The next meeting of the Country Woman's club, Monday, Oct. 17, should be one of special interest to both old and new members.

"Club Traditions" will bring to mind for members of long standing the original purposes and efforts of the then small group, and it should be still more interesting for the later entrants to learn just what the club standards are, and the place it has held in the life of the community.

Mrs. E. I. Price, a charter member, is chairman, and her committee members are Mrs. C. W. Sutter, Mrs. Lillian Voge, another charter member, Mrs. D. H. Cramer and Mrs. G. S. Robson.

WHO'S NEWS THIS WEEK

By LEMUEL F. PARTON

NEW YORK.—G. Ward Price, British war correspondent, who is Adolf Hitler's friend and supporter, and who has traveled, lunched, dined and visited with him off and on for years, is England's most authentic news source as to Der Fuehrer's plans. Lord Rothermere's paper, the London Daily Mail, which employs Mr. Price, has been scooping the ears off the other London sheets on Hitler stories.

Hitler Bares His Soul to Mail Scribe

Mr. Price previously has related how he and Lord Rothermere were two of four guests at Mr. Hitler's first formal dinner party after he seized power. That was December 19, 1934. It was about this time that Lord Rothermere, reaching 80 per cent of the British reading public, through his newspapers and press associations, began his unceasing campaign for fascism in England. A third guest at the dinner was E. W. D. Tennant, of the Anglo-German fellowship, a fellowship which Lord Rothermere and Mr. Price have diligently fostered, with their Apologia Fascisma.

Mr. Price, educated at Cambridge university, is a seasoned and richly garlanded British war correspondent. As foreign correspondent of the Daily Mail, he was with the Turkish army in the first Balkan war; he was an official correspondent at the Dardanelles, he was with the British army at Salonika. He has long been a quasi-official reporter for the British empire. He writes concisely, clearly and expertly, with a keen alertness for revealing little human touches and with little concern for the dry imponderables of political or economic theory.

His book, "I Know These Dictators," published in this country last year, was, in the view of this writer, big news, and should have stirred up a lot of excitement. Principally about Adolf Hitler and Benito Mussolini, it builds out of intimately observed minutiae of their minds and persons a synthesis of virtue, charm and heroism.

Mr. Price, in this book, reports that Adolf Hitler is genteel, humorous, courageous, chivalrous, abstemious, profoundly intellectual, kindly, forgiving, unselfish, tender, a clever story-teller, and loves dogs and children.

DR. NORBERT WIENER challenges Milton, or Pope or whoever it was that observed, "Chaos umpire sits, and by decision more embroils the fray."

Scientists Can Now Predict Way of Chaos

At last, says this famous savant of the Massachusetts Institute of Technology, scientists "can now predict what will happen in states of complete confusion."

As Dr. Wiener explains the new outreach of the calculus, at the fourth international congress for applied mechanics at Cambridge, it seems to clock everything, from a case of hiccoughs to Adolf Hitler, just so long as it is "pure" chaos and not a mere adulteration. That ought to let in most of Europe.

He read English at the age of three and Latin at five, and entered Tufts college at the age of 11, finishing in the class of 1910. He took his master's degree in 1912 and his doctor's in 1913, both at Harvard.

At the age of 19, he was an assistant professor at Harvard, lecturing on "The Theory of Knowledge." Dr. Wiener has kept on steadily gathering laurels in the groves of Academe.

EVENTS of the last few weeks have, of course, flushed many half-pint Hitlers in Europe, chief among them being young Leon Degrelle, of Belgium.

A Petticoat Putsch Is New Threat

Counted out last year, he now bounces back with some show of power; enough, at any rate, to make a martial stir of men and horse in Brussels, with word that he might start delivery on the "terror" which he has been promising for several years.

Thirty-two years old, of the type of a healthy and husky high-school lad, he is the best-looking of all the Hitler apprentices, and there's no knowing but that he might start the world's first great petticoat putsch. Comely young women have flocked to his banner in shoals, and much of his support has come from women. He has both allure and showmanship and few of the stigmata of the paranoiac, unless it be his apparent determination to scare everybody to death.

He tried to seize Brussels in October, 1936, stirring up considerable violence. His party is the "Rexist."

NATIONAL AFFAIRS

Reviewed by CARTER FIELD

President's personal strength with voters still high, notwithstanding his defeats in purge attempts in primaries . . . Reorganization bill may appear again in modified form . . . Activities of Lewis and Smith in Mexico stir up Secretary Hull.

WASHINGTON. — A recent poll shows that, despite the victory of every one of the nine Democratic senators who opposed President Roosevelt on the Supreme court issue in their renomination battles, and the failure of such hundred percenters as William G. McAdoo in California, James P. Pope in Idaho, William H. Dieterich in Illinois, Herbert E. Hitchcock in South Dakota, and George L. Berry in Tennessee, the President's personal strength with the voters is still high. In fact the sampling ballots taken indicate that he has more than 50 per cent of the total vote of the two major parties.

The discouraging point about this, to opponents of the President, is that more than a majority of the major party voters favor the President as against an ideal opponent! For example, had they been asked, instead of if they still favor the President, whether they favored him against Herbert C. Hoover, a certain number of those who recorded themselves against the President would have switched to the Roosevelt side. Probably a very considerable number.

Or if the voters questioned in this "sampling" poll had been asked if they favored Roosevelt or Alfred M. Landon undoubtedly many would have moved over to the President's side. Not the same group—as would have moved had the choice been Hoover—but a different group. Similarly, the President would have gained had any conceivable opponent been made the alternative.

Fight on President in Primaries Not Personal

This is obvious on its face. Also it is obvious that the Democrats who voted against the President's wishes in Georgia, Maryland, South Carolina and Iowa, and the two leading Democratic organizations in Illinois that disregarded his wishes and refused to consider Senator Dieterich, cannot be lumped in any group as opposed to the President. For example, Sen. James F. Byrnes of South Carolina has frequently been mentioned as one of the closest men in the entire senate to the President. Many senators so regard him, despite the fact that the President favored Sen. Alben W. Barkley over Byrnes, and of course also over Sen. Pat Harrison, as Democratic leader of the senate.

Sen. Byrnes

Yet strongly pro-New Deal and even more strongly pro-Roosevelt Senator Byrnes threw every ounce of influence he could bring to bear to aid the renomination of Sen. Ellison D. Smith, whom the President wanted "purged." No one thinks that the Kelly-Nash organization in Chicago, or the Gov. Henry Horner machine in down-state Illinois, is going to be against the President from now on, just because they ignored his wishes in their own cat and dog fight for control of the Democratic organization in Illinois. No one thinks that Sen. George L. Radcliffe, close personal friend and a business associate of President Roosevelt before he entered politics, who managed Millard E. Tydings' successful fight for renomination, is going to be lined up now with the opposition to the President just because the President fought what Radcliffe was trying to do in Maryland.

The big question now is whether the President, goaded by his non-politically minded inner circle, will show his resentment against the men who helped beat him in the primaries, but are actually still for him. The general opinion is that he will do nothing of the sort.

Bureau Chiefs Breathe Sighs of Relief Now

Lots of important cogs in the administration were rooting under their breaths for the senators President Roosevelt tried to retire to private life. These bureau chiefs and assistants are breathing sighs of relief now, and their relief has nothing to do with whether Mr. Roosevelt wants a third term, or whether he would still like to enlarge the Supreme court. What has been bothering them is the reorganization bill.

It will be recalled that the reorganization bill, which virtually gave the President blanket powers to shift and change any government bureaus and commissions he liked, passed the senate but was defeated by a narrow margin—four votes—in the house. One government agency took no chances. The army engineers are old-timers at this sort of thing, so they moved in on the senate, and it was discovered, when the bill emerged from the special committee that handled it, that the army engineers were specifically exempt from the new powers the President was to have been given by the bill.

But most of the worried agencies, bureaus and commissions did not know how to do likewise. Some of them knew but did not have the power. The army engineers have a curious series of personal ties with the elder statesmen on Capitol Hill not possessed by any non-military division of the government. Some of the ranking officers of the corps were appointed to West Point by senators still in the upper house. Some were appointed by former senators, but the ties still exist. And the ranking officers of the corps have been in close touch with nearly all the present senators and members of the house of representatives. They have discussions with them over projects, during committee hearings. They meet them socially, and gravitate together at otherwise dull parties to talk about subject of common interest—generally some river or harbor project back in the legislator's home state that the army officer has studied.

Continuing Friendships Are Thus Built Up

That sort of thing builds up continuing friendships. The men get to like each other. They get to admire each other's work, especially as there is no friction and no element of competition. So naturally the senator or representative lends a willing ear when the officer comes round with an urgent plea that the administration be not allowed to mess his job up—as he sees it. There is the further fact that the legislator risks nothing by granting this favor. It is not an issue at home. If it were made an issue, he would probably be on the right side of it.

But there has been every indication that the President would renew his fight to get the reorganization bill, and was willing not to antagonize the powerful lobby of the army engineers by including them in it. So the other bureaus and commissions and agencies have been worried ever since congress adjourned.

With one or two exceptions the senators that the President would have liked to see beaten because they opposed him on the Supreme court issue opposed him also on the reorganization bill

Enemies of Labor Board Plan New Line of Attack

A new line of attack on the national labor relations board is about to open as a result of the recent trip to Mexico City of John L. Lewis and Edwin Smith, a member of the board.

The new attack by enemies of the labor board and of C. I. O. may have the support of Cordell Hull, secretary of state. It is charged that it was the influence of Lewis and Smith, with certain other Americans, that has made the task of the state department so difficult in dealing with the Mexican government on the issue of Mexico's seizure of American and other foreign oil properties.

Reports reaching state department officials show that the newspaper accounts of the Mexico City meeting attended by Lewis and Smith did not give an adequate indication of the lengths to which the American visitors went in approving everything Mexico has done. One dispatch spoke of the "venom" with which Edwin Smith attacked everyone opposing extremist labor legislation.

Smith praised Mexico as the only country having a capitalistic structure—presumably the only country except the Soviet republic—which has the enlightened courage to insure the rights of all workers.

Reports indicate that Mexican officials prepared an elaborate build-up for Smith prior to and after his speech, which was translated immediately into Spanish and repeated to the meeting for the benefit of the delegates unable to speak English.

Declares Mexicans Lead In Forward Movement

Smith left no doubt in the minds of the delegates that Mexico was in the lead in the forward movement, with the United States tagging along but en route.

John L. Lewis, according to the reports, agreed with Smith in supporting every action the Mexican government has taken. Four million workers in the United States, he told the delegates, had sent him to bring good wishes and encouragement to the Mexican workers. Problems of workers in all countries are similar, he said, and the tactics of big employers the same in no matter what country they may be.

John L. Lewis

The two great statesmen on the North American continent, he said, are also the two great humanitarians—Roosevelt in the United States and Cardenas in Mexico. Most of the delegates came away with the notion, from Lewis' speech, that the aims of both Roosevelt and Cardenas on behalf of the downtrodden and in the desire to develop national resources for the benefit of all the workers, are such that Roosevelt approved Cardenas' action in seizing the oil properties.

This last statement, according to reliable State department officials, is just about burning up Secretary Hull.

It Must Be Admitted Waiter Was Not Tactful

The customer was raging and fuming as the manager came up.

"What is the matter, sir?" asked the manager.

"Discharge that waiter at once!" demanded the diner.

Regarding the boiled egg which had been served, the manager said:

"I'm very sorry about this egg, sir, but I can't discharge the waiter for that. After all, he wasn't to know that there was a chicken in it."

"Perhaps not," snapped the customer. "But when I told him there was, he needn't have taken away my spoon and brought me a knife and fork."

Norse Seamen

Hardy, indeed, are Norway's seamen. Though Norway ranks but forty-seventh in population among the major nations, her merchant marine is fourth largest in the world. Since the days of the Vikings, Norwegian seamen have specialized in long ocean trips. Even today they carry most of the cargoes from America's Gulf states to Europe.

In the days of sailing ships, too, Norwegian skippers began taking their families to sea because ocean voyages took many months. The sailors' superstition that women are bad luck to a ship never bothered them.

'Hill-Climbing' Boats

A unique steamship service operates between the East Prussian towns of Elbing and Deutsch-Eylau, a distance of 40 miles. Part of the trip is made on a canal and part on a railroad, whose specially designed trucks pick up the little vessels and quickly carry them over four long hills. These "hill-climbing boats" have rendered unnecessary the construction of 20 locks.—Collier's Weekly.

Most anyone will agree that it is wise to use only the very best motor oil in an expensive car. Buy it does not follow that cheap oil should be used in lower priced cars. SYNOPSIS

Barbara Sentry, seeking to sober up her escort, Johnnie Boyd, on the way home from a party, slaps him, and attracts the attention of a policeman, whom the boy knocks down. As he arrests him, Professor Brace of Harvard comes to the rescue and drives Barbara home. On the way they see Barbara's father driving from the direction of his office at 12:45, but when he gets home he tells his wife it is 11:15 and that he's been playing bridge at the club. Next day Sentry reports his office has been robbed and a Miss Wines, former temporary employee, killed. The evening papers luridly confirm the story, and Sentry takes it hard. Mary, elder daughter, in love with Neil Ray, young interne at the hospital where she works, goes off to dinner at Gus Loran's, Sentry's partner, with Mrs. Loran's brother, Jimmy Endle. Mr. and Mrs. Sentry call on old Mrs. Sentry, and Barbara, alone, receives Dan Fisher, reporter, who advises her not to talk. Phil Sentry, son at Yale, is disturbed at the possible implications and suspicion of Miss Wines' absence from her rooms for three days during August. He goes home to help. Sentry is arrested and booked for murder. Dan Fisher explains the evidence against him—that the robbery was a fake, the safe opened by one who knew the combination, changed since Miss Wines' employment there—that a back door key, a duplicate of Sentry's, was found in the girl's purse, and that Sentry, too, had been away those three days in August. Brace calls, and backs up Barbara in her denial that Sentry could have done it, because of the discrepancy of time between the slaying and their seeing Sentry on the road.

"Arthur was always losing keys," Mrs. Sentry assented, and realized with a faint shock of terror that she had spoken of her husband in the past tense, and then, with a deeper tremor, that Hare seemed not to have noticed, as though it were natural for her to speak of him so.

She said hurriedly: "I hear the girls coming downstairs. Let's not talk about details, Dean!" Her eyes met his for a moment, held his; and his after a moment were lowered, as though some word had passed between them.

Phil argued, "But just the same—" Then he stopped as Barbara and Mary appeared in the doorway.

"'Morning, children," Mrs. Sentry said lightly. "Sleepy-heads!"

Barbara saw Dean Hare; she cried: "Oh, have you seen father, Mr. Hare? When will they let him come home?"

"I'm afraid not right away, Barbara," he confessed. "You know, these things take time."

"But they know he didn't do it!" Barbara insisted.

"Well, of course we know—"

"They know it, too!" the girl urged. "I told Mr. Flood—"

Mrs. Sentry spoke quickly, almost desperately. She knew what Barbara was about to say; that Mr. Sentry had come home on the night of the murder at a quarter of one. But if Barbara said that, Dean Hare would know Arthur had lied to him. She fought instinctively to protect Arthur from that discovery.

"Sit down, Barbara, Mary," she said. "After all, there's breakfast to be eaten, our routine to go on."

Barbara insisted: "But mother, I—"

"Barbara!"

Barbara sat down, puzzled by her mother's manner; and Mrs. Sentry thought, amazed at herself: I'm like an ostrich, hiding my head in the sand, trying to pretend, to blind myself— She said: "We've got to keep our heads, our sense of proportion. We must go on eating, for instance!"

Mary said in a low tone: "Must we? Pretend nothing has happened? We won't fool anyone but ourselves."

Mrs. Sentry ignored her. She asked the lawyer, in polite and empty tones, as one makes conversation with a strange dinner partner, "How's Olive, Dean?" Olive was Mrs. Hare.

"She wants to come over this afternoon—if you'd like."

"Of course!"

Mary said grimly: "I'm surprised she's willing to. I expect most people—"

Barbara cried, furiously: "Mary! You talk as though you thought father really did it!" And she said: "We must all go see him, right away! We'll all go together."

Mary said, "I want to see Neil!" She added, "This—he and I must decide what to do."

The doorbell rang, and Oscar went to answer it, and Phil followed him into the hall. Mrs. Sentry suggested: "Ask Neil to dinner, if you like, Mary. Or to tea?"

Mary hesitated, nodded; then Linda Dane came in with Phil. "Mother said it was too early for me to come," she confessed quietly. "She's coming a little later, Mrs. Sentry. But I didn't want to wait. I knew you'd be up."

"There's nothing to see!" Mary told her coldly. "We're not a sideshow!"

Mrs. Sentry protested, "Mary!"

But Linda said: "It's all right, Mrs. Sentry. I know how you all must feel; but—I didn't come to be curious, Mary. Please don't feel I'm prying. We've always—at least, Barbara and Phil and I have always been such good friends."

Barbara said, "Darling!" And Phil said: "Good kid, Lin!"

Dean Hare rose to go, and he nodded to Phil so that the boy went with him to the car.

"Phil," he suggested then, "don't let your sisters or your mother go to see your father yet. Not today. I shouldn't even go myself, if I were you. In a day or two, yes; but just now he's terribly shocked. It would distress any of you to see him; and I think it would be harder for him to—keep his self control."

"Gosh! I suppose so," Phil agreed, shakily. He urged, "I want him to know we're — with him, though!"

"I'll tell him," the attorney promised.

But then Mrs. Sentry came to the open door. "Oh, Dean," she called, "will you arrange for me to see Arthur, let me know when I'm to come?"

Hare looked to Phil for support; but Phil said, "I know it will do him good to see mother, Mr. Hare." And the lawyer surrendered.

"Very well," he agreed. "If you—"

Oscar came to summon Mrs. Sentry to the telephone. "Mr. Loran calling," he explained. She departed, and Hare said doubtfully:

"I still think it's a mistake, Phil, for her to go. Mr. Loran came last night while I was there. He was just back from New York. Your father almost broke down, just talking to him. Mr. Loran was sympathetic, of course, and loyal, and indignant at the police; but—it does no good to take that attitude. The police aren't to blame." He hesitated, said then, "We have to face the fact that there's a lot of circumstantial evidence against your father."

"Morning, Children," Mrs. Sentry Said Lightly.

Phil said explosively, "You know darned well my father wouldn't kill anyone!"

"It's not a question of knowing. It's a question of proving."

Then he turned, for a police car came up the drive. Reporters on duty like guards at the entrance trotted after it; and Dan Fisher was among them. The police car stopped behind Dean Hare's; but Dan came along to where Phil and the lawyer stood, and he said in a low tone:

"Sentry, if you and Mr. Hare are interested, Flood waited outside last night till Professor Brace came out, questioned him."

Phil nodded, only half hearing, staring at the police car, from which officers alighted. Fisher asked softly, "Who was the young lady who came in a few minutes ago?"

"One of my sister's friends."

"What's her name?"

Phil hesitated, but Dean Hare said, "Phil, the best rule with reporters is, if they're going to find out anyway, tell them."

Phil nodded ruefully. "I suppose so. She's Linda Dane."

Fisher said, "Oh! I know her brother, Joe." Someone else demanded, "Not engaged to her, are you?" Phil shook his head, coloring with anger, and Inspector Irons alighted from the police car and said to the reporters:

"All right, boys, outside. Give these folks a break. I'll see that you get anything that you ought to have."

They obeyed him, moved away, and Dean Hare asked: "Anything new, Inspector?"

"I want to have a look around inside," the Inspector explained. "If that's all right?"

"Of course."

"And I might ask some questions. I suppose you'll want to be in on that." He added, as though apologizing for his own forbearance, "It's not the way I usually handle things, but the D. A. says to keep you in touch as we go along."

The lawyer nodded "Thanks." He said: "Mrs. Sentry wants to see Mr. Sentry this morning. I'll be with her. Could you hold off on the questions till this afternoon?"

Irons reflected: "Well, the Grand Jury's sitting, and the D. A.'s idea was to give them the evidence we've got, tomorrow." He looked at Hare. "I understand you and Mr. Flood agreed not to arraign him before?"

"Yes."

Irons looked at Phil apologetically. "It was hunch, as much as anything, when I booked him," he confessed. "But the D. A. got some stuff last night, and—I'll want to have all the dope I can get, for the Grand Jury."

"Of course," the lawyer agreed. "But this afternoon will do, to—ask your questions. Suppose I meet you here at two."

Phil, listening, felt himself shiver; his teeth pressed hard together to keep them quiet. There was something in their tones deeply terrifying. He was almost relieved when Dean Hare drove away, and he himself was left with Inspector Irons.

When Hare departed, the other men who had come in the police car approached, and Irons introduced them to Phil. Inspector Hays, Sergeant Kane, Officer Regan.

And the Inspector suggested then, "Mr. Sentry, you want to show us around?"

"Glad to," Phil agreed.

"I'd like to have a look at the garage."

Phil led the way, watched the Inspector note the cars, study the garage. "Chauffeur sleep up above?" he asked. Phil nodded. Old Eli was burning leaves by the tennis court, and they went that way. Irons asked the old man:

"You usually hear a car come in at night, do you?"

Eli said, "Hey?" And Phil explained: "He's pretty deaf. You'll have to talk louder. But he wouldn't hear anything at night. Takes an earthquake to wake him."

Eli demanded querulously, "What you say?"

Irons nodded. "Skip it," he decided. He crossed to the pergola, looked down at the water just below them here. Two ducks sunning themselves on the bank waddled into the water and swam warily away.

"All right," said the Inspector. "Let's go in the house."

Indoors, with his mother and sisters looking to him for strength, Phil himself was stronger. His grandmother had come downstairs; they were all in the living-room. Phil explained what the Inspector wished to do, suggested they stay where they were. Inspector Hays and Sergeant Kane went toward the kitchen. Regan had remained outside. Inspector Irons and Phil went upstairs.

Phil suggsted, "If there's anything special you're looking for, I might help you."

Irons hesitated. "I don't want to —put anything over on you," he said gently. "I told Mr. Hare I wouldn't ask you any questions unless he was here."

Phil colored. "We've nothing to hide!" he protested.

"Sure, I know," the Inspector agreed. "But I'll just look around. I want to see everything. Whose room is this?"

"Mine," said Phil. The Inspector nodded; he opened the drawers of the chiffonier, the desk, the closet, the recess under the window seat where Phil kept rods and fishing gear.

Phil, looking over the other's shoulder, saw something there; a japanned metal box with a combination lock. And the cover of the box had somehow been forced open! His thoughts went racing . . . In the summer after his Freshman year, at a dude ranch in New Mexico, one of the cowboys had given him an old single-action .45 revolver, with cartridge belt and holster; had told him that the weapon had been taken off the body of a man killed in a gun battle, years before. Phil brought it home; but because Mrs. Sentry was afraid of firearms, he never showed it to his mother or his sisters, kept it here in this locked box. Only, he had showed it to his father. His father had known it was here . . .

Irons picked up the box, now empty, and he held it to his face and sniffed at it. The old holster had been heavy with grease and oil. Phil remembered the rich smell. He heard himself now, saying hurriedly: "That's my old tackle box. Used to keep a couple of reels in it, in leather cases." The inspector did not turn. "I forgot the combination, had to break it open with a—" He tried to think what tool his father might have used. "With a chisel," he said, and repeated: "Couple of reels, and some bass plugs—"

"Must have been hard on the chisel," the Inspector commented, and turned, the box in his hands, and looked at Phil. Phil saw sympathy and understanding in the older man's eyes, and was sick with fear. Then Sergeant Kane said from the doorway, in an intent tone: "Hays wants you, Inspector. Down cellar."

Irons nodded. "Right," he said. With the broken box under his arm, he followed Kane.

Phil followed them. Irons once looked back, as though to bid him stay behind; but he did not speak.

In the cellar, Inspector Hays stood by the furnace. The furnace door was open. The fall had been warm, these last few days unseasonably so; and there had been here no recent fire.

Irons went toward the other inspector. Hays said quietly, "See if you see what I see."

He turned a flashlight's beam into the fire box of the furnace. Irons stooped to look in. After a moment he stood up.

"Close the door easy," he said crisply then. "Close the draughts. Any air might make the ashes crumble or muss them up. I'll get Peters and Knobble right out here. They can handle it."

Phil touched his arm. "What is it, Inspector?" he asked.

Captive Balloons Are to Help Defend English Cities Against Air Raiders

In a recent lecture, Air Commodore J. G. Hearson partly lifted the veil of secrecy surrounding the balloon barrage scheme, in which a large number of captive balloons will add to the protection of cities against air raiders, says the Illustrated London News.

Each balloon is handled by a lorry-winch with a crew of ten. Toward the end of the World war "balloon aprons" were used in the defense of London. They were formed by tethering four or five balloons in a line and stretching a network of wires between them.

The balloon barrage of today is not in the form of "aprons," but consists merely of the cables by which the balloons are held captive. At first sight, such a defense may appear rather diaphanous; but, if simple calculations are made, it will be found to be far more effective than many might imagine.

Assuming that the span of the wings of a bomber is 70 feet, and that that bomber passes through a line of balloons tethered at 100-yard intervals, there is about one chance in four of the aircraft hitting a cable and one chance in two if it makes an "in-and-out" passage, a formidable risk which no attacker could afford to continue taking if the cables are lethal; that is, capable of destroying any airplane coming in contact with them.

The cables are so thin that they cannot be seen from a traveling airplane, even by day and in fine weather.

The role of a balloon barrage is to deny passage to aircraft below the barrage height over the defended area; thus driving the attackers to an altitude at which they can be dealt with by anti-aircraft fire and interceptor fighters.

The Name Lucia

The name Lucia is the Italian and Spanish form and Lucille or Lucile the French form of the English Lucy, of Latin origin and meaning "light, daybreak, light bringer." There are about 15 variations of this name, Lucile being perhaps the favorite. Lu-sha is the usual English pronunciation of Lucia but Italians give it three syllables, Lu-chee-a, accenting the second.

What to Eat and Why

C. Houston Goudiss Discusses Significance of Fruits and Vegetables; Tells the Truth About Canned Foods

By C. HOUSTON GOUDISS

A GENERATION ago, except in mid-summer, fruits were a luxury that only appeared, with nuts, at the end of a festive meal, and vegetables, except for the root crops, had no regular place in the daily diet. But when scientists established the importance of mineral salts in human nutrition, these two groups of foods assumed a position of commanding importance, because next to milk and eggs, they are the chief conveyors of minerals from the soil to man.

With the discovery of vitamins they achieved new distinction, because in their content of these vital substances, they rank with milk and eggs as "protective" foods.

Foods That Safeguard Health

In addition to providing nutrients that are indispensable for buoyant health and normal growth, they possess another important virtue: the indigestible cellulose or bulk yielded by the fibrous framework of the leaves, stems and fruits of plants, has a natural laxative value which helps to insure normal elimination. And finally, they are extremely useful in helping to maintain the acid-base balance of the body, for all vegetables and most fruits yield an alkaline-ash following digestion.

Green Vegetables for Iron

Fruits and vegetables supply varying amounts of practically every mineral element the body requires.

They do not compare with milk as a source of calcium, but substantial amounts of this bone-and-tooth-building substance are to be found in leaf and stem vegetables, carrots, oranges, figs and strawberries. Moreover, investigations have demonstrated that calcium from vegetables is well utilized by adults.

Green vegetables, in general, are outstanding as a source of iron. And it has been further established that their iron is better absorbed and becomes more completely available for nutrition than iron from some other sources.

Some fruits are also valued for their iron content, the more notable including oranges; tomatoes, which are botanically a fruit, though they are classed as a vegetable; strawberries, blackberries, raspberries and huckleberries; and dried figs, dates and prunes.

Vegetables for Vitamin A

We usually think of milk and other dairy products as our most important sources of vitamin A. But recently, it has been determined that the thin green leaves of vegetables are also outstanding in this respect. Weight for weight, when fresh, escarole is more than five times as rich as butter. Young green peas and green string beans are also a good source of this vitamin as are tomatoes, carrots, and sweet potatoes.

Sources of Vitamin C

Vitamin C, which is essential for maintaining the health of teeth and gums and for preventing the degeneration of muscle fibers generally, is obtained almost entirely from fruits and vegetables. The principal sources of this vitamin are the citrus fruits; raw and canned tomatoes and canned tomato juice; strawberries; raw carrots, onions and yellow turnips.

As this vitamin is easily destroyed by heat in the presence of oxygen, the amount present in any fruit or vegetable is greatly reduced by the average home cooking methods. On the other hand, this and other vitamins, as well as minerals, are usually well retained in commercially canned fruits and vegetables.

What About Canned Foods?

I frequently receive letters from readers who question the merits of canned foods. They ask whether it is true that canned foods are devoid of vitamins; whether canned foods are wholesome for children; whether or not canned foods may spoil on the grocer's shelves; and if it is dangerous to eat foods that have stood in the can for a few minutes after being opened.

To discount the value of modern canned foods is to display a lack of knowledge as to how these foods are harvested, prepared and packed. And the failure to use them may result in depriving your family of essential minerals and vitamins.

There are available in cans today, 46 varieties of vegetables, 33 kinds of fruit, and 10 different juices, besides soups, numerous specialties and several kinds of fish. Every one of these presents a healthful and nutritious food in a form that is often superior to the same foods cooked at home. That is partly because of the methods employed and partly because canned foods are processed at the peak of their flavor and freshness.

A Superlative Canned Food

An outstanding example is canned salmon which has been called by one of America's leading food experts, "the cheapest and most nutritious animal food that can be had for children over six."

Very little fresh salmon finds its way into our markets and even then it may be far from "fresh" after a considerable journey packed in ice. On the other hand, salmon canneries have been established in close proximity to the waters from which salmon are taken, so that only a few hours elapse between the time the fish are removed from the water and the moment their rich nourishment is sealed in cans.

Similarly the fruits and vegetables designed for canning are allowed to mature on tree or vine. This means that they develop maximum flavor and vitamin content. Then they are picked, rushed to nearby canneries and hermetically sealed in cans. The sealed cans are then cooked at high heat so as to destroy any bacteria which might be present. Because they are protected from the air during the cooking process, and because the cooking liquors are sealed in the cans, they retain a maximum amount of minerals and vitamins. It is because canned foods are so definitely superior in this respect that physicians encouraged the canning of strained fruits and vegetables for infants and young children.

Fallacies Disproved

Canned foods will keep indefinitely without spoilage, as long as nothing occurs to make the can leak. It is not necessary to remove canned food from the container as soon as the tin is opened, though many homemakers often do so because the food presents a more attractive appearance in a dish or bowl. A hissing sound when opening does not mean that the contents of a can are spoiled, but rather that there was a vacuum in the can, which the air is rushing in to fill.

Thus canned fruits and vegetables are not only "as good as" fresh ones, but are often superior in food values. Every homemaker should see to it that she uses both liberally in the diet of every member of her family, as a means of providing liberal amounts of minerals and vitamins.

FIRE PREVENTION WEEK

When Mrs. O'Leary's cow kicked over the lantern on October 9, 1871, she shed a great deal of light on the necessity of fire prevention.

The necessity still exists, for America's crackling flames last year licked up some $250,000,000 worth of property. Proper observance of Fire Prevention week, October 9 to 15, means eliminating fire hazards. This is the wise man's way of fighting fire before the damage is done!

SAVE A LIFE!

Can you and I, and California's two and a half million other motorists, help save 8,500 lives this year?

And in saving those lives, spare thousands of families the needless heartbreak of children snatched from them, or fathers and mothers cruelly struck down, of all the tragedies that follow the jangling crashes of men and metal in collision?

The evidence is in the affirmative! For eight consecutive months, with September yet to be heard from, the traffic toll on the nation's highways and byroads has been markedly less than the 1937 fatality list, reported the Nationl Safety Council last week.

If America continues to keep its brakes set against driving deviltry, 8,500 lives, at the present rate, will be saved by the year's end. Here again is proof that with caution and courtesy the motorist can wage triumphant warfare against the spectre of death, if further proof is needed in view of the high safety records which are being set, month in and month out, by commercial highway users. The motor transport fleets, rolling up millions of miles monthly, are flying top blue-ribbon awards for safety, with a scoresheet on 1.1 accidents per 100,000 miles to clinch them.

Life-saving on the nation's traffic networks is actually becoming a fact instead of a hope, but much remains to be done to end the threat of the speeding throttle. Death traps still lurk on poorly surfaced roads with outdated grading. Ill-advised attempts to slash the permissible truck tonnages threaten to clog the highways with double the present number of transport vehicles. And irresponsible motorists, some with licenses revoked, still make of the roadways an Insanity Fair.

Admittedly, the safety job is not yet done, but a heartening record shows it well begun!

UTOPIA DE LUXE

When the old age pensioners of Sacramento county told their county welfare visitors they wanted their $35 a month stipend paid in the solid coin of the realm—even if the Thirty every Thursday plan were endorsed—they voiced an intelligent suspicion that has been gnawing at the hearts of thousands of oldsters and not the oldsters only.

If California is swept by a white gale of worthless paper, disrupting public credit, glutting treasuries with stamp script, even the present pensions might be engulfed in the storm.

The issue is not whether life shall begin at fifty. California's pensions are already the most liberal in the nation. The issue, as ably stated by Dr. Walter Scott Franklin, lieutenant governor candidate, is "whether we shall toss overboard intelligence and sound government, or whether we shall refuse to be deceived by 'ham and egg' opportunists and shall elect men to office who are determined to help California regain security the hard way, the American way." The terrors of impoverished old age must be vanquished. This state is now embarked upon that task, but a program of genuine security cannot be achieved by an impatient flick of the voter's wrist. Such a program can only be achieved by patient planning and considered effort!

Nevertheless, the grandiose thirty-pieces-of-paper scheme has raised false hopes in the hearts of many, but its deception has been less cruel than that of conscienceless candidates who have leapt aboard the ham-and-eggs bandwagon in an attempt to win votes, well knowing they have no power to put the plan into action.

However, it is only fitting that false Utopias with their false profits, should be championed by false prophets!

WHAT THE PUBLIC WANTS

When the urge for power gains the upper hand, peace flies out the window.

When the two contestants for power happen to be the two divisions of labor's sundered army, who have elected to use the nation as the stage for their great duel, the public can no linger turn aside, indifferent to the consequences.

The conflict between the two houses of labor is deepening. At its annual convention in Houston, Texas, last week, the American Federation of Labor lustily championed its war against the Committee for Industrial Organization. A special assessment to replenish the war chest against the C. I. O. was voted. From that fund, during the last twelve months, some $1,174,014, was spent for organizational purposes, compared with the $457,787 spent for the same purpose in 1936-37 before the battle lines were drawn.

But the Committee for Industrial Organization is not standing idly by. It is planning a crucial drive into the building trades industries, heart and backbone of A. F. of L. strength, knowing that success for the C. I. O. in this field means a crippling blow to the forces of Mr. Green.

And what of the nation's residential construction program? What of the building boom that was to galvanize the forces of recovery into action?

These, presumably, are to be cast aside as of secondary importance to an internecine organization struggle. But already the public, whose patience has long been overtaxed, is proceeding to take energetic measures of defense, and the labor initiative on California's November ballot is only one of several progressive and orderly steps to ensure peace for the public, job security for wage-earners, and greater stability for management.

The intelligent American public no longer chooses to turn aside from labor's civil war. It wants peace and means to achieve it!

ANIMAL ORPHANS

If an elephant sticks his trunk in your front window and asks for a drink of water, or if a lean-shanked lion purrs sadly at your back door and requests one gross of uncooked chickens, don't be alarmed!

Hard times have struck a cruel blow at the Los Angeles Lincoln park zoo. In a word, the zoo is broke. The sheriff is due to give the animals their walking papers this week. As orphans of the depression's storms, Bosco, Bimbo, Hippo, and their comrades in distress, may have to forage for their own "three squares" hereafter—wherever they can get them. Don't say you weren't warned!

P. S.—Jackie, the lion, likes his T-bone steaks rare.

HOW BIG IS AMERICA?

How big is America? Secretary of Commerce Roper gave one measure of its size the other day in reporting the official estimate of the census bureau for the population of the United States in 1938.

That figure has now reached 129,818,000, representing an increase of 941,000 over the previous year, and a gain of nearly 55 million since 1900.

These scores of millions of inhabitants constitute one way of grasping the immensity of America's size. And in a period rife with punitive lawmaking, America, with its 130 millions to be fed, housed, clothed, shod, given medical care and a variety of other services, gives welcome proof that there is room here for all enterprises devoted to supplying these manifold needs of her great population. Forgetful politicians need reminding on that score when they propose to enact harmful class legislation or, disregarding the consumer's interest, heed the foolish cries of one business group to cripple another business group.

If carried to extremes, this tendency can lead only to the destruction of the nation's competitive economy and the substitution of omnipresent government control. Observers find this trend most marked in retailing, a field which offers $25 billion worth of trade yearly. It is this vast segment of American business which, like a rich plum, has caught the eyes of promoters and political agitators more than willing to sacrifice the consumer's interest to get the whole plum for themselves.

How big is America? With her 130 million citizens, so big that even "little" business is big, so great that there is room enough for all legitimate types of consumer?benefiting enterprise!

HIGH SCHOOL NOTES

By Don Martin

HIGH SCHOOL OPEN HOUSE

Campbell high P. T. A. is sponsoring "open house" Wednesday evening to give the community an opportunity to inspect the beautiful new $245,000 school plant.

Everyone is invited to attend and parents of students are especially urged to do so. The group will meet in the gym at 8 p. m. where Principal Willard Van Dyke will give a general picture of the plant and tell of the program for this year. The talk will be followed by a personally conducted tour of the buildings by student guides. Teachers will be on hand in classrooms to meet the visitors.

After the tour of inspection, refreshments will be served in the gym.

WILL PLAY GILROY

Campbell high 110's and 120's will open their 1938 basketball season when they go into action against Gilroy Friday evening. Gilroy always gives the lightweights a run for their money and a couple of hard-fought contests are expected this year.

Following is the 110 line-up released by Coach Ralph Noddin: Kawahara and Ouida, forwards; Griffin, center and Ogino and Mondo, guards.

Campbell's league schedule, which has been cut to four games this year, follows: Oct. 14, Gilroy, there; Oct. 21, Los Gatos, here; Oct. 28, Santa Clara, there; and Nov. 10, Washington, here.

CHEMISTRY LAB

The chemistry laboratory on the second floor of the administration building is near completion and will probably be occupied at the beginning of next week. According to Miss Clarabel Boesch, instructor, it will be one of the most modern "labs" in this part of the state.

The biology room also on the second floor of the administration building was completed this week and will be put to use soon.

READING ROOM

J. H. de Vaughn, Jr., chairman of the reading room committee, revealed that the room will be open when the first bus arrives in the morning, will remain open all day, and stay open until the last bus leaves. The reading room is a joint project of the Girl Reserves and Hi-Y club and its purpose is to give students with liesure time a useful activity. The reading room will be furnished with games, magazines and popular books.

NO HOME GAMES

Campbell will not play any football games at home this year, according to an announcement by Coach Steve R. Casaleggio. This action was taken because Campbell has not a turf nor any facilities for collecting gate receipts. However, Coach Casaleggio added that all games will be played home next year if the field and bleachers are completed.

NOON MEETING

President Thais Shaves has called a noon meeting of the Girl Reserves for Thursday. The club program for the coming year will be discussed.

HI-Y MEET

Hi-Y club held its first meeting of the year at the San Jose YMCA Tuesday evening. Charles Lane was appointed chairman of a committee to frame a resolution stating the boys conviction that the old gym should be saved for a community recreational center. Bert Robinson was made chairman of a committee appointed to investigate possibilities of sponsoring a rifle club and David Crawley heads a vocational project committee.

After the business meeting, swimming was enjoyed in the "Y" plunge.

HOME ROOMS

Friday the first home room meetings of the year will be held. The purpose of the meetings is to organize the home rooms and elect officers and representatives to Supreme Council.

F. V. Perrott left Friday on his return journey to his home in Newcastle-on-Tyne, England. Perrott has been here for several weeks supervising the packing and shipping of fruit to England, for the J. C. Ainsley Packing company.

The FARMERS CORNER

by RALPH H. TAYLOR

Executive Secretary Agricultural Council of California

"Cooperative marketing has regained most of its depression losses, and from the standpoint of member ship, dividend payments and financial condition, agricultural cooperation in the United States appears to be in a stronger position today than at any time in its 70 years of history."

That significant appraisal—doubly significant to California, as this state leads the United States in colume of cooperative business—is vouched for by F. F. Hill, deputy governor of the Farm Credit Administration.

Reporting on the first door-to-door check-up on farm co-ops ever conducted, which was recently completed by the Farm Credit Adminsitration, aided by the 13 banks for cooperatives and some 30 state agricultural colleges and universities, Mr. Hill finds that—

In 1917, when the first official survey of farmers' cooperatives was made, there were 5,424 cooperative marketing and purchasing associations in the United States, with an estimated annual business of $625,940,000.

In 1936 (the final year covered in the canvass just completed), the number of co-ops had jumped to 15,573, with a gross business of $2,750,000,000 annually.

Back in 1917, one in every ten farmers was a member of a co-op. And today, nearly half of all American farmers are marketing their products or purchasing farm supplies and services through cooperative farmer-owned organizations.

Due, in the main, to falling price levels, the business of farm cooperatives declined during the depression, according to the survey, but there was a sharp turn upward as recovery began.

Highlighting the upturn, Mr. Hill reports: "The actual value of farm products sold and supplies purchased cooperatively by farmers increased $750,000,000 since 1932."

In 1936, the nation-wide study reveals, farmers received one in every four of their cash-income dollars from cooperative marketing organizations (about $1,762,000,000 total) — and bought more than $337,000,000 worth ow farm supplies collectively.

The value of the farm co-op in finding markets for specialty crops is singled out for particular consideration in the report of the federal survey. Declares Mr. Hill:

"Cooperatives are finding nation wide markets for fruits, vegetables and specialty crops which 10 or 15 years ago enjoyed only a seasonal or sectional demand. The year-around demand for California's citrus fruits, raisins, walnuts, olives, and other products has been created largely through cooperative advertising. Eggs and poultry from the Pacific coast are regularly marketed in New York City, Philadelphia, Baltimore and other urban centers."

California, incidentally, probably furnishes more instances of luxury products which became every-day necessities—due, largely, to cooperative marketing and advertising—than any other state. This state's million dollar baby—the avocado industry—is one of the most recent examples.

The splendid, high-type leadership in the cooperative movement in California has just received new recognition in the well-deserved promotion which has come to Dr. E. A. Stokdyk, president of the Berkeley Bank for Cooperatives, who has been transferred to Washington as deputy governor of the Farm Credit Administration.

Whether Dr. Stokdyk remains in Washington derpanently, or chooses to return to Berkeley, is immaterial. His presence in Washington at this time should be of tremendous help in achieveing a better understanding of our California problems in the one department of the federal government which has earned an enviable reputation for doing its work with a minimum of politics. The Farm Credit Administration, under the leadership of Governor W. I. Myers, has been a business institution rather than a political institution—and Governor Myers and his staff are entitled to the gratitude of the whole farming industry for their fine, unselfish work in behalf of agriculture.

Tells of Kiwanis-"Y" Boys' Camp

Harold Bramson, county "Y" secretary, explained the work of the Kiwanis-Y. M. C. A. co-sponsored camp for boys in the Santa Cruz mountains, to which the Campbell Kiwanis club sent six local boys. These boys were present and confirmed the reports given by the secretary. Another youth, James Laurie, entertained with accordian solos.

Next week the club will journey to Santa Cruz for evening dinner and an evening of fun and frolic at the Capitola cottage of Herold Morton.

CONGREGATIONAL CHURCH NOTES
J. H. Bennett, Pastor

This Sunday morning the guest speaker will be Dr. Edward from Burbank, southern California. This invitation is a courtesy act towards the Los Gatos Presbyterian church which will use the local pulpit so as to allow their pulpit committee to hear Dr. Edward, with a view to selecting a minister to succeed Rev. Everett Thompson who recently moved to the Palo Alto church. It is hoped that a large congregation will greet this friend.

The first meeting of the new season will be held by the Campbell Congregational Men's fellowship, next Wednesday evening, Oct. 19, with dinner and program all arranged by the men. Alvin Long will show some colored films on Hawaii. Some surprise items will be on the program. Ray Fish, president, will conduct some important business. All men of the town who are not in any other way connected with other church mens groups are welcome. The men will be invited to support some vital programs during the coming months.

The church rally supper was a great success last Wednesday evening. The parlors were packed full for dinner and great pleasure was shown in the talk by Rev. Gerald Kennedy on his trip around the British Isles. Interest is being aroused over the forthcoming 50th anniversary in 1939.

Campbell's Sigma Sigma society will hold a food sale at Field's store Saturday morning, Oct. 15, from nine till twelve o'clock.

The Women's Service club will meet next Wednesday, Oct. 19, at 2:30 p. m., at the home of Miss Winifred Grizzle, corner Campbell avenue and North Second street.

Substandard Prunes Fill Local W'house

The state prune pro-rate warehouse in the former Hyde cannery was completely filled last week and business was opened Monday in the old California cannery, last used by the Havens-Samaira company.

Frang Perry, local forman, reported that 500 tons of sub-standard fruit had been received from orchardists in this district. It is expected that 700 or 800 tons will be handled before the warehouse asks for standard prunes within a week or so, under the 25 per cent prorate curtailment tonnage plan.

The present location at the plant on Hopkins avenue will be Perry's office throughout the winter and spring.

Superior Judge Davison Honored

Superior Court Judge Charles W. Davison, is being honored on Friday afternoon and evening of this week, (September 14) by his sister Mrs. Bertha Marguerite Rice of Saratoga, the well known California writer, and her son Roland Rice, the artist, at the latters studio on the San Jose-Saratoga highway. The hours are from two to five in the afternoon and from seven to ten in the evening. The affair is entirely informal and the public is invited. A most cordial invitation is extended to citizens who would like to meet Judge Davison personally. Thev are requested to drop in any time during the afternoon or evening.

Assisting Mrs. Rice will be a group of representative citizens of the western foothill region and her sisters Mrs. Benjamin Franklin Davison of Hamilton avenue and Mrs. Jesse B. Collins of Campbell. The Rice studio is nearly opposite Lutheria Way on the edge of town.

Supervisors Pass Zoning Ordinance

The county supervisors at Monday's meeting considered an amendment to the county zoning ordinance, creating a special section which includes the road from Race street to Los Gatos, establishing the width of the road at 120 feet and creating a set-back building line.

As no objectors appeared the board adopted the amendment. This will avoid a great deal of expense and time when future needs necessitate a wider highway.

Grows Blue Grass

In a general way the southwestern section of Virginia grows natural blue grass; the Shenandoah valley and the tier of counties lying east of the Blue Ridge, called Piedmont, also grow a great deal of blue grass.

Banks Bid On High Dist. Loan

The American Trust and the First National Bank of Los Gatos were the bidders for the tax anticipation loan to the Campbell High school district at a premium of 1½ per cent.

The amount of the loan was $18,875 which will be repaid by the district by the end of the year when school revenues amounting to more than $50,000 are expected during the 1938-39 fiscal year.

The bid with its low rate of interest was made to county board of supervisors at the meeting on Monday.

Williams Opens Fall Campaign

Pointing to the opposition vote against the incumbent coroner in the primary election, the Amos O. Williams For Coroner committee opened its campaign this week with headquarters at 42 West San Carlos street in San Jose, where window cards, literature and windshield stickers may be procured.

Taking the place of the popular "missing match" book matches will be chewing gum with special labels worded "Stick With Amos O. Williams For Coroner."

Campaign workers point out that in the huge opposition vote against the present coroner, shown by official tabulations to be 42,017, the overwhelming preference of Santa Clara county voters was for former corner Amos O. Williams, experienced and trained in the duties a coroner must perform. It is a matter of record that Mr. Williams went under his county budget every year in office.

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE CHURCHES

"God hath not appointed us to wrath, but to obtain salvation by our Lord Jesus Christ, who died for us, that whether we wake or sleep, we should live together with him." These words from I Thessalonians comprise the Golden Text to be used Sunday, October 16 in all Churches of Christ, Scientist.

The subject of the Lesson-Sermon will be "Doctrine of Atonement." Included among the Scriptural selections will be: "So also Christ glorified not himself to be made high priest; but he that said unto him, Thou art my Son, today have I begotten thee. . Though he were a Son, yet learned he obedience by the things which he suffered; And being made perfect, he became the author of eternal salvation unto all them that obey him;" (Hebr. 5: 5, 8, 9).

The following passage from the Christian Science textbook will also be included: "Meekly our Master met the mockery of his unrecognized grandeur. . He won eternal honors . . He wrought a full salvation from sin, sickness, and death" (p. 39).

Object of "Gag" Rules

The original "gag" rules in the house of representatives were adopted in 1836-44 to bar anti-slavery petitions.

Board Formally Accepts Building

The new $244,000 high school building was formally accepted by the board of trustees Monday following a last report by architect Harold Weeks and a final inspection tour of the building by the board.

The work of wrecking the old high school annex on Rincon avenue was begun Monday by WPA crews, who are also removing the bus garage on the new grounds.

A new garage will be erected at a changed location, and work of laying walks and other improvements to the grounds are under way.

REBEKAHS TO MEET OCT. 18

The Ada Rebekah lodge will have their regular business meeting Tuesday evening, October 18 in I. O. O. F. hall. All candidates for membership are urged to have their applications in by Tuesday.

Hostesses for the evening are Mesdames Edna Walker, Arlene Murdock and Josephine Keesaman.

Born: To Mr. and Mrs. Helmar Hansen of North Central avenue, Campbell, at San Jose hospital, on Oct. 4, a daughter, Sandra Lee, weight 6 pounds, 4 ounces. Mrs. Hansen is the former Ruby Williams.

Mr. and Mrs. Albert West left last week for a two weeks vacation in Shasta county and other parts of northern California.

Ada Rebekah Stitching club is planning for a large card party for the evening of Saturday, Nov. 12 to be held in the I. O. O. F. dining hall. Play will begin at 8 o'clock.

Bloused Coat, Long Jackets And Cape Suit Very Latest

By CHERIE NICHOLAS

IN SELECTING your fall and winter apparel you can be as "choosy" as you like, for the air is rife with exciting new silhouettes, new trends, new materials and new details.

However, there are certain characteristic features that are outstanding and which may be regarded as guiding posts along fashion's highway. Three significant trends are shown in the illustration, namely the coat that has a bloused top and slenderized waistline, the long cape-suit or costume of stunning wool that is gorgeously furred and the suit with jacket that takes on longer length.

The softly styled blouse coat that is full above the waistline, and has a narrow skirt and neat slender waistline is the talk o' town. Fullness above a snugly belted waistline makes a smart silhouette for the black wool town coat shown to the left in the picture. It is bloused even more at the back than is here shown, front view. Loose bracelet-length sleeves add fashion interest.

These coats glory in exquisite woolens, the velvety surfaced such as duvetyne being favored. Even the latest fur coats are being styled in small-waist semi-fitted lines, that are being offset with full blouse tops. These are developed in such supple fabriclike furs as kidskins, seal-type pelts, fine caracul and Persian lamb.

With the cloth coats so slenderizing and ladylike in appearance, huge muffs will be carried later on. Then, too, an interesting style angle is the cloth dressmaker coat with blouse top that has fur sleeves. The dressy long coat that has a yoke of sleek fur is also ultra chic.

Another smart fashion and one that shows off this season's rich and beautiful wool weaves to perfection is the long cape costume. A luxurious full length tuxedo collar of wolf embellishes the sweeping lines of the unlined cape of the distinguished wool costume centered in the trio of wool fashions here shown. The cape and the straight slender skirt are of soft wool in a novel weave in deep taupe color and the softly tailored blouse is of sheer wool in an open homespun fabric.

The cape theme plays up dramatically in a newcomer on the scene—a full-length picturesque cape made of richly colorful plaid wool. The suit, which completes a stunning threesome, is tailored of monotone wool trimmed with plaid matched to the cape.

Capes are very important in the evening mode, some of them are quite voluminous as they are designed to wear over full hoop-skirted formal gowns. To vary the program some of the evening capes are three-quarter length done in black velvet.

The big news in regard to jackets is that they are longer and frequently double-breasted as you see to the right in the picture. These longish coats bespeak the last word in swank. The model shown is a new plum color wool with the voguish longer jacket that tops a panel pleated skirt. Which reminds that unexpectedly pleats are continuing in the fall and winter mode not only in groups and panels but the all-around pleated skirt is considered high style.

Use More Ribbons In Late Fashions

When in doubt fasten it with ribbon bows, which is exactly what designers are in a mood to do. It is not only that fluttery bows in profusion adorn the new fashions, but ribbon is employed in every conceivable way, perhaps running around row and row on party frocks, or making a big corsage of wide ribbon in lieu of lace jabot or flower boutonniere.

Multi-color bands of ribbon trim youthful felt hats. Bed-jackets are made all of ribbon. Blouses have bands of ribbon coming from sleeve and underside seam that tie in bows up and down the front opening. Youthful princess dresses have little ribbon bows traveling from neck to hem—and the half of the ribbon story has not yet been told.

Revive Hoopskirts For Formal Wear

The new fashion program stages just one excitement after another. Just to mention a few, there's the revival of hoopskirts. Yes'm, really and truly hoopskirts! To be sure they are for formal wear only and just to calm you down a bit we don't mind adding that some of the hoop contrivances are made detachable, for they are to be worn only with the new wide-skirted gala night frocks.

There is the new high-on-top-head hair-do! Gaining right along though many are loath to give up the youthful, practical bob, be it long or short. With the amazing new "doll hats" high hairdress is correct answer.

Sleeves! Just watch them! Leg o' mutton types, dolman styles, sleeves that are strikingly in contrast to the dress via embroidery and other ornamentation, full bishop sleeves, bracelet length sleeves, wrist-length fitted sleeves, short sleeves, fur sleeves in your cloth coat and so on and so on.

Silk Cord Motifs Dress Black Suit

For a smart black suit Marjorie Dunton suggests elaborate silk cord motifs wound over the front of the jacket, sometimes stitched over patches of short black persian lamb.

A much simpler way of dressing up the suit is to put it over a barred blouse of metalic cloth or over a sophisticated blouse of black and white striped satin.

Feature Brown in New Combinations

Brightening the brown horizon for fall are the deep rusts and hennas—one, to be specific, being Jean Patou's new "Cornelian" shade. "Tabac," launched earlier in the year, continues popular along with stable golden seal tones.

Combinations of brown and other colors are a keynote of many a collection.

Sequin Scarf

A few gold sequins make a border on a white organdie scarf, the whole tied into a big bow to wear scarf fashion around the neck of a navy wool suit.

Touch of White

A generous bow of white watermarked taffeta ribbon perches on the left lapel of a new black wool crepe tailleur.

New Competition

Waists Go Down

Ask Me Another

A General Quiz

The Questions

1. When are lunar rainbows most likely to occur?
2. What is the term of an original copyright?
3. The age of only one woman is given in the Bible; whose age is it?
4. How was the statue of Liberty paid for?
5. Were napkins used in the days of the Greeks?
6. What is a caryatid?
7. From what is the term sabotage derived?
8. Who was the author of the following quotation: "Men do not make laws. They do but discover them"?
9. Who paid for the construction of Boulder dam and appurtenances?

The Answers

1. After showers on nights when the moon is bright but low.
2. Twenty-eight years (with 28 years additional if a second term is applied for).
3. That of Sarah, half sister of Abraham, 90 years old (Genesis 17:17.)
4. By popular subscription by the people of France. It was presented to the U. S. in 1886.
5. In place of napkins, small pieces of bread were used and then thrown on the floor for the dogs to eat.
6. A female figure used in architecture as a pillar.
7. From the French "sabot," meaning a wooden shoe, and derived from the fact that French workmen threw their wooden shoes into the machinery to put it out of order.
8. Calvin Coolidge.
9. Congress allotted $70,000,000 for the construction of the dam and Lake Mead, created by it, and $38,200,000 for the construction of the power plant. Revenues from the sale of power, it is planned, will pay all operation and maintenance expenses, and the cost of the construction of the dam and power plant, with interest, will be amortized within 50 years.

A Slim Waist for Glamour

HERE are two charming new designs that give you the tiny, Victorian waistline — almost an hour-glass effect—that's so fashionable right now. Both accentuate it, too, with perked-up sleeves and full skirts. Both give you a most feminine and appealing look! And it's so easy to make these carefully simplified designs. Each includes a detailed sew chart that carefully explains every step of the way.

Hearthside Coat.

You can relax so thoroughly in this charming design. It will give you the inward peace that comes of knowing you look particularly pretty. The fitted-in waistline, the sweep of the full skirt, are too flattering for words! Make it of taffeta, flannel, challis, moire or velveteen—choosing colors that do nice things to your eyes and hair. This pattern is perforated for short length, too.

Daytime Dirndl.

Of course you want a fall-into winter version of the flattering dirndl—and here's the way to make it. With a tailored collar, big buttons down the bodice, Victorian sleeves and (a highlight of charm!) the shirred waistline that looks so delightful on young and supple figures. For this, choose challis, silk print, taffeta or cashmere—preferable in some of the new, rich, warm, lively colorings.

The Patterns.

1498 is designed for sizes 14, 16, 18, 20, 40, 42 and 44. For long coat, size 16 requires 4¾ yards of 39 inch material. For short, 4¼ yards. 1¾ yards grosgrain ribbon to trim.

1617 is designed for sizes 12, 14, 16, 18 and 20. Size 14 requires 3½ yards of 39-inch material. ⅜ yard for contrasting collar, if desired. 1¾ yard braid to trim. 1¼ yard ribbon for sash belt.

Fall and Winter Fashion Book.

The new 32-page Fall and Winter Pattern Book which shows photographs of the dresses being worn is now out. (One pattern and the Fall and Winter Pattern Book—25 cents.) You can order the book separately for 15 cents.

Send your order to The Sewing Circle Pattern Dept., 149 New Montgomery Ave., San Francisco, Calif. Patterns 15 cents (in coins) each.

A BIT of FUN

Not So Bold, Either

Father—What? A big boy of five and afraid to go to bed alone? Be like Daddy, unafraid.

Tommy—But Daddy, you always sleep with Mummy.

Officer—When I told the defendant he had exceeded the speed limit, he said: "Well, I'm taking my mother-in-law to her home."

Doing His Best

"Are you doing anything for the preservation of antiques?"

"I sell cosmetics."

Second Choice

"You smoke the same cigars as your boss?"

"Yes. He smokes the first half."

Milestones

Briggs—You've been married a good few years now, haven't you, old boy?

Simmons—I'll say we have. We've started on our third toast-rack.

Granny Scores

The modern girl was listening impatiently to a long lecture from her grandmother, and at last she could stand no more.

"It's all very well to find fault with my new frock, granny!" she exclaimed. "But didn't you ever set your cap at a young man?"

Granny drew herself up. "Never my kneecap, miss!" she retorted.

HAVE YOU DISCOVERED THIS "MAKIN'S" TOBACCO?

IT ROLLS FASTER— FIRMER— NEATER

Because—

It's specially cut to cling together — to lay right in the paper, and to roll without spilling out the ends or breaking the paper.

IT SMOKES COOLER— MILDER— TASTES RICHER

Here's why—

It's better tobacco, "no-bite" treated to remove any hint of harshness — "crimp cut" to burn slowly, so a fellow can enjoy a real mellow but full-bodied smoke.
